Land Acknowledgement

Today, this gathering is being convened on the Treaty Lands of the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation, and the traditional territory of many nations, including the Haudenosaunee, the Huron-Wendat peoples, and the Anishinabewaki. It is also home to many diverse First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples.

At Community Development Halton, we are proud to promote the spirit of helping, sharing, and caring for our neighbours without expectation that has been exemplified by each of these nations, as the first peoples of this land, for thousands of years. We wish to acknowledge our gratitude for the ongoing opportunity to live, work, and build community on this land.

We call for the reconciliation of current injustices as well as those that have been carried out against Indigenous communities which include but are not limited to broken treaty relationships. We commit to working towards creating a just, inclusive, and vibrant community for all.

We all have a collective responsibility to care for each other, to care for these lands, and it is past time to turn reflection into action. We challenges ourselves, and everyone joining us today, to commit to at least one tangible next step to move this work forward.

Step Two: Identify barriers and opportunities

- Identify barriers
 - Be brutal and honest
 - Who isn't serving on your Board? Why?
 - What practices exist that hamper Board function and success?
- Access opportunities
 - What are the personal benefits and value serving on your Board offers?
 - Who should be serving on your Board?

20XX

Step Three: Know What You Need

Prepare for recruitment

- Legal requirements for electing or appointing directors
- Current board composition
- Roles and responsibilities of the board and its committees
- Diversity of the board compared to that of the communities that the organization serves

Assess vacancies

- Upcoming and potential vacancies
- Role description
 - Specific personal qualities required by the directors and those in leadership positions
- Board Matrix tool

"Who we have serving as directors is the single biggest determinant of the quality of governance in our organizations.

Would we hire a new employee without considering how they contribute to and fill gaps in the skills, knowledge, and competencies of those people already employed? When we bring equal diligence and care to board recruitment, then the board becomes a place where people want to serve"
